★★★★★ It worked for both of my kids - great to have an at-home option

Reviewed in the United States on January 10, 2017

Verified Purchase

Both of my kids had ear pain after a winter cold. In the past, I would have just gone to the doctor and gotten antibiotics right away, but I decided to try this because they had been on antibiotics already this year. I ordered through Prime and got them the next day. When they arrived, I sat the kids down on the couch with a ClearPop with the bad ear up per the directions. They liked the taste (even my daughter who usually does not like anything citrus-y) and I played a video while they sucked on the ClearPop to distract them. After about 30 minutes they were done. Both of them said the pain was less and one said they felt a 'pop'. We saved ourselves a trip to the doctors and avoided putting the kids on meds. I will order more ClearPops to have on hand just in case and will take them with me on plane trips in the future. I really recommend people try this product to help with ear pain before you head to the doctor. If it was a severe infection, you might still need antibiotics, but with this, at least you have an option to try at home.

I heard about this product from a trusted client. I have a two year old daughter and she's just starting to get all the germs know to man! I loved the fact that I had an option of not using a medication. Clear pop was so easy to give to my daughter. The second I thought she might have an ear infection I gave her one. And after that she stated asking for a "pop" when she was sick. It works great, and she loves it. I'm sold.

My youngest daughter started having ear pain while swimming for PE at school. As a nurse I was skeptical that she had an actual infection, and did not want her to start antibiotics right away. She was able to follow the ClearPop instructions perfectly and following administration, she happily told me her ear felt better! No need for antibiotics or even Tylenol! I'll keep a few of these on hand all of the time now!

I purchased this product for my 1 year old grandson who we just found out is allergic to amoxicillin after a terrible reaction. The Clearpop really gave him relief from his ear infection without having to risk another allergic reaction to other meds. He seemed to like to flavor and there was no fuss in getting him to suck on it. I highly recommend the product.

My six year old is prone to ear infections. One night while waiting for strep test results and confirming he had an ear infection the doctor gave him one of these. Within two minutes it relieved the pain (something that Ibuprofen can't seem to do) so I was sold. Inevitably my son seems to ear infections in the middle of the night with little warning however since being introduced to these I have found I can give him one which will relieve the pain enough to allow him to go back to sleep. This is great and allows us all more comfort to sleep through the night and then get him into the doc in the morning for antibiotics. Highly recommend if you have a child that suffers from painful ear infections just note it temporarily relieves the pain but doesn't "cure" the infection.

I wish I had known about this when my child was younger. I purchased this in hopes it would alleviate the pressure build-up on my ears caused by a severe double ear infection. It did not help clear my eustachian tubes, unfortunately. I think, if the spoon were larger for adults, it may have worked. Either that, or my ears are just too infected right now for it to help. That being said, the taste was not awful, this I give it for stars for use in children. Hopefully the company will come out with an adult size version of this soon! Here's a picture of the directions and the used and unused 'spoons'.

This product has been a lifesaver in our household!!!! My son has struggled with ear infections since before he was one. He was constantly on antibiotics and many times his ear would rupture because of the pressure. When he was finally old enough to use the clearpop, we would give him one any time he would even remotely show signs of an ear infection. After using it, his pain was gone!!! It eliminated the need to go to the doctor, eliminated the need for antibiotics and relieved the pressure in his ear in minutes!!! As a mom, being able to fix the problem and help my son feel better right at home was so fulfilling! Now we keep them stocked in our medicine cabinet! There has been times when he would wake up in the middle of the night crying of ear pain and we would do a clearpop. He instantly felt better and would go right back to bed! What could have been an awful night was no big deal thanks to clearpop!! I highly recommend this product!

★★★★★ Very Good and Natural Product.

Reviewed in the United States on May 31, 2018

Very simple, natural way to keep kids ears healthy. Nothing will cure a full blown ear infection other than antibiotics and a doctor, but my grandson, who is prone to ear infections benefitted from these. He sucked on it like a lollipop and did not get an ear infection after tugging on his left ear for a day. We thought he was having some issues, so we tried these. He stopped tugging the next day and was fine. He had a normal doctor appointment the next week and we got the all clear on his ears. I plan to keep a few of these handy and use them as needed. I have also taken to letting him have one on long car rides. Good product, especially when used for the intended purpose which is ear health.

★★★★★ Got for my son but ended up using for myself and it helped (update: my son liked it too)

Reviewed in the United States on November 22, 2015

I had a few of these on hand for my toddler as a just in case, but I was actually the one who got an earache of some kind...so I grabbed one of these, laid down on the couch, and sucked away while watching some delightfully bad TV. When I got up my ear hurt a lot less than it had when I started. I really like that there isn't any sugar so I don't worry that I'm wrecking my teeth or my glycemc index. I hope neither my son or I need them--but I'll definitely use again if either of us do.

Update: I've now had cause for my six year old to use them, and he both loved the taste and said they helped his ear feel better (now I just have to watch him trying to say he has an earache when he doesn't just so he can suck on one!)

It has saved me from 1 doctors visit and another time provided relief when my doctor didn't find it appropriate to give antibiotics. Ensure your child actually creates suction while using the clearpop, so it can work. I would imagine this would help on plane rides. My son was 8 and 10 when he tried. I keep one in my medicine cabinet for the middle of the night earaches. At a minimum, it might help relieve some pain prior to getting to the doctor's office.

★★★★★ Cool product that relieves pressure in ear

Reviewed in the United States on December 3, 2015

ClearPop works on the actual pressure that causes pain during ear infections, rather than attempting to mask pain like Tylenol. It's a lollipop for when your child complains of ear pain. By sucking on it, the child's mouth does the work of releasing the trapped pressure in an infected ear. It kind of looks like an upside down spoon. If it works you may not need to see a doctor (although you should if your child still complains of ear pain after using this).

I was so excited about this idea -- so clever! My 5 year old gave the lollipop a tiny taste, said it was OK, agreed to lie down the right way, sucked on it for about 10 more seconds, declared she didn't like it and refused to have it in her mouth after that. Bummer! By contrast, she adores the taste of every brand of children's pain reliever and gobbled up some ibuprofen. I really wish this had worked for us! Given that it's the shape that is the key, maybe the manufacturer should keep experimenting with taste formulas? The people who create kids' medications and vitamins have it figured out!
